Seeking Microscopes

Calling all Hardy Parents who might have access to microscopes.

I am attempting to do an enrichment program that introduces children to microscopes and the cellular world. I will start by working with the 4th Graders and Mrs. Harrington; hopefully this could eventually be expanded to the 3rd and 5th graders.

Unfortunately, there are only a few microscopes available at the Hardy at the moment. If anyone knows of a company that would be willing to donate microscopes to an elementary school (either as a good will gesture or because they are upgrading their microscopes and don't need their old ones), please contact me.

Many thanks,

Seeking Quilters & Sewers

Hello Hardy Community,

Deb Martin, the Art Teacher, is planning to have her students work on communal quilt project for the school. She is recruiting help with quilting and sewing skills from volunteers.

Personally I have some very, very basic sewing skills and have always wanted to learn the basics of quilting. So, I've contacted a Thompson School mother, Sheila Ward, who's an amazing seamstress and quilter and she agreed to run a quilting "class/workshop" in the new year.

We have not talked about details yet but she was excited about the project and I am excited as well. Let me know if you're interested so I can keep you informed about the project.

Happy Holidays,

Cristiana Navarro (mother of Nina and Nicholas Wang- 3rd and K).
